

REPORT SHORTAGE OF LABOR ON FARMS IN THIS AREA

Many Workers from the South
Are Now Employed
On Farms

TO PURCHASE COMBINES

A Number of Women and Girls Assist In Gathering
Berry Crop

There is a shortage of farm labor in lower Bucks County, according to County Agent William F. Greenawalt. The shortage, it was said, is due to the fact that many of the young men have been called into the service, and because others have taken jobs in the defense industries where they can get better wages.

As the result, older men and even boys in their teens are operating trucks and tractors on the large truck farms in the lower part of the county, and women and girls assisted in the harvest of the berry crop.

Between 500 and 600 men, classified as transient laborers, and brought from the South, have found employment on three of the largest truck farms in the lower end of the county, and they are taking the places of the young men who have entered the service and others who have left to engage in the national defense industries.

All over the county, said Mr. Greenawalt, farmers are taking short cuts in order to get their work out of the way. Some of them have purchased or will purchase combines to harvest their grain. These machines will do the work of a large group of men in a short time, but in the end, it is not believed the farmers will gain financially because the investment in these machines is quite large and the operating expenses are quite heavy.

One farmer operating a property of more than 100 acres was compelled to do most of the hay harvesting alone because he was unable to get help. This farmer has signified his intention of purchasing a combine to harvest his grain.

The shortage of farm help, said Mr. Greenawalt, has caused the farmers to work more on a co-operative basis. Farmers living near each other have been assisting each other in the harvesting of the hay, and this will be done during the grain harvest season which is about in its midst. This co-operative system of farming was practiced many years ago but, with the advent of modern farm machinery and the abundance of farm help which followed, the practice has been discontinued for a number of years.

Many farmers, according to Mr. Greenawalt, were able to speed up the

"We must rededicate ourselves to the Freedom of our Country and to the program of National Defense," was the message of Frank Gwynn, past commander, American Legion, Department of Pennsylvania, when he spoke before the local Rotary Club here Thursday afternoon in a program celebrating and commemorating Independence Day.

Gwynn, who was introduced by Jacob C. Schmidt, Jr., past commander of the Robert W. Bracken Post, and who is a member of the Allentown Rotary Club.

Two Affairs Are Given For Miss E. Ferguson

Miss Enid Whyatt, Wilson avenue, was hostess to friends on Tuesday evening at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Elizabeth Ferguson, East Circle.

The rooms were decorated in yellow and white streamers, and the gifts were placed on a table. The centerpiece was a large doll dressed in white and yellow. Yellow parasols were favors.

Those attending: Mrs. Edward LeCompte, Mrs. Angus Gillies, Sr., Mrs. Joseph Whyatt, Mrs. Robert Ferguson, Mrs. Z. Canilwine, Miss Olive Whyatt, Miss Eunice Ferguson, Bristol; Mrs. C. Zucker, Morrisville; Mrs. Walter Hanner, Edgely; Mrs. A. Reynolds, Hawthorne, N. J.; Mrs. M. Cohn, the Misses Margaret and Anna Billy and Carol Reynolds, Trenton, N. J.

Miss Ferguson was honored on Thursday by the printing department of the Paterson Parchment Paper Company at a surprise dinner at the Inn at Wheatheaf. She was presented with an electric iron, and a waffle iron.

Those attending: the Misses Ada Bustran, Helen Pitavornik, Mary Robinson, Florence Wright, Edith Hess, Anna Lezak, Stella Kurkel, Miriam Dougherty, Katherine Bauer, Anna Billy, Margaret Billy, Mildred Booz; Mrs. John Benish.

Health Officer Inspects Sources of Milk Supply

Thirty-nine dairy farms supplying milk for distribution in Bristol were inspected during the past month by Health Officer James H. Brooks. "Conditions were found to be good to fair. All were found to be clean but stables lacked whitewashing in some instances due to labor shortage. All owners promised to have the whitewashing done as soon as possible."

The Health Officer reported 27 cases of mumps, scarlet fever, 2; chicken pox, one; dog bite, one.

Twenty-two health certificates were issued and three were renewed. There are at present under quarantine the following cases: Mumps, nine; chicken pox, one; scarlet fever, one.

Soviets Claim Germans Are Checked

Moscow, July 5.—Claiming enemy forces had been checked on all fronts but the Bessarabian border, the Soviet high command today announced the Germans had failed to make substantial gains on the far-flung battle line during the night.

Asserting that 700,000 Nazis have been killed or wounded since hostilities began, the Red military communique conceded today that German and Romanian forces had succeeded in crossing the Pruth River along the Bessarabian border. But it added—

"During the night of July 4th, the military situation on the various fronts did not alter considerably in the position and regrouping of our troops."

Stating that the enemy had been halted after crossing the Pruth River, the communique said—

"On the Bessarabian sector the enemy threw in important forces of infantry supported by tanks and succeeded in crossing the river Pruth at several places. The Germans attempted to take advantage of this success but their further progress was checked."

Along the central part of the front, Moscow insisted, the Germans still failed to cross the Beresina River. Flatly denying German claims that this historic stream, where 20,000 of Napoleon's soldiers were lost in 1812, had been crossed by the Nazis, the Soviet war bulletin said—

"In the direction of Borisov and Bobruisk, all night fighting continued. On the river Beresina numerous attempts of the enemy to force the river were successfully checked. Enemy forces suffered heavy losses in the water as well as on the river banks."

Bomb Northern France

London, July 5.—British bombers and fighters, streaking from their island bases only a few hours after a huge RAF night-bombing contingent returned home from blasting Brest and Lorient, delivered a smashing onslaught against northern France early this afternoon.

Bomb explosions were felt along the southeast coast and observers believed other targets further inland were attacked.

The Air Ministry announced sticks of bombs straddled the German battle cruisers Scharnhorst and Gneisenau and the cruiser Prince Eugen at Brest and said that dockside buildings were set on fire.

JOHN R. JONES TAKES AS BRIDE, ALMA M. HOLMES

Ceremony Performed by The Rev. J. R. Gailey in Presbyterian Church

SOJOURN AT WILDWOOD

A holiday season marriage ceremony which occurred in Bristol was that of Miss Alma Mae Holmes, daughter of Mrs. May Holmes, 400 Market street, and Mr. John Raymond Jones, 311 Radcliffe street, son of Mrs. William Todd, Montpelier, Ind.

The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. James R. Gailey, pastor, in Bristol Presbyterian Church, on Thursday evening at 5:30 o'clock.

Attendants of the couple were Miss Lillian Holmes, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid; and Mr. Harry Arnold, 311 Radcliffe street, best man.

The dress worn by the bride was of white sheer, it being street length. Blue velvet ribbon was used as inserts for the bodice; the sleeves were long; the neck-line round; and the skirt was cut full. Her pompadour hat was made of white grosgrain ribbon, with trim of white velvet bows. Sandals and other accessories were of white, and she wore a corsage of gardenias.

The bridesmaid was garbed in a dress of light blue silk, with short sleeves and full-cut skirt. Embroidery of deep blue and rose tones enhanced the square neckline and shirred waistline. Her white pleated, silk off-the-face style hat was trimmed with a white veil. Sandals were white, and she wore a corsage of pink rose-buds.

A large number of guests were en-

CONDUCT PICNIC

The annual picnic of St. James Circle was held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Roberts, Oxford Valley Road. Tables were placed on the lawn where a luncheon was served to 40 members and friends. A short business session was presided over by Mrs. George Boswell. The afternoon was spent playing cards.

Here and There in Bucks County Towns

The Rev. Daniel O. Wilson, who has been serving as pastor of Wycombe Baptist Church, has resigned that charge to accept the pastorate of Meade Street Baptist Church, Wilkes-Barre.

A graduate of Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary, Philadelphia, this year, the Rev. Mr. Wilson has been located at Wycombe for three years. He will relinquish that position on July 13th.

The Vacation-Bible School conducted by him closed on Thursday, with commencement exercises scheduled for tomorrow evening in the church at Wycombe. About 50 children have been following the courses.

Harvey H. Baum, in addressing a recent meeting of Chalfont Grange, spoke of budgeting of expenses on the farm and in the home.

Mr. Baum said the budgeting of expenses on the farm is a new idea to him, but he believes it to be a good one if it can be made to work. Mr. Baum intimated that budgeting expenses on the farm might be a rather difficult matter because of the crop failures, the lack of stability of farm commodities and the many unexpected expenses. He said as far as he can see, it would be almost impossible to budget expenses on the farm.

Taking up the question of budgeting in the home, Mrs. George A. Moll said the farm homes has the same problem as the farm itself. There is no fixed income because prices received for farm products fluctuate. She also called attention to the unexpected expenses and breakdowns, the need of replacing damaged and worn out machinery and poor crops. She declared that where there is a standardized income to be dependent upon budgeting is an ideal way to keep track of the expenses.

Members responded to roll call by telling what they would like to do if they had other jobs. The responses of both men and women showed satisfaction with the work in which they are now engaged, although several signified a desire for shorter hours.

One hundred and thirty-one pupils are enrolled and seven teachers comprise the faculty of Doylestown Summer School which got under way on Monday with two Hatfield high school students and one Doylestown township pupil among those attending the classes.

Hollis A. Lachat, principal of the high school and also head of the Summer school, has associated with him a faculty composed of Allen P. George, Forrest S. Sowers, Arthur T. Reese, Mrs. William L. Lowther, Willard L. Jones and Earl J. Frick.

Mr. Lachat teaches ninth, tenth and eleventh grade composition and tenth grade literature. Mr. George teaches seventh and eighth grade composition and literature and ninth grade history.

Mr. Sowers teaches ninth and tenth grade algebra and general science and biology. Mr. Reese teaches seventh, eighth, tenth and eleventh grade history and eighth grade spelling.

Mrs. Lowther, wife of a Doylestown high school faculty teacher, teaches ninth and tenth grade Latin, ninth grade French and ninth and eleventh grade literature.

Mr. Jones teaches eighth grade mathematics and geography and first year bookkeeping.

Instrumental music is taught by Mr. Frick, head of the high school music department.

Classes having the largest attendance are those in history and literature.

Summer school, which officially began on Friday when enrollment took place, continues for 20 days with classes beginning at 8:30 and continuing until 11:30.

Examination for Summer school subjects will be held July 25th, and on August 29th examinations in subjects in which various pupils were tutored during the vacation period will be held.

SIX HURT IN SECTION IN HOLIDAY CRASHES

Some Accidents Due To Wet
Highways; Damage To Cars Considerable

OFFICERS KEPT BUSY

Six people were slightly hurt in holiday motor crashes in this area, with damage to some of the cars involved being considerable.

Due to the rain, and slippery highway conditions, several accidents occurred, although in some instances no one was hurt.

At 12:15 p. m., yesterday, as Lawrence Paglia, S. 60th street, Philadelphia, was making a right-hand turn, from Lincoln Highway, three miles east of South Langhorne, his car skidded on the wet highway, the result being slight injuries to himself and one passenger, and damage to the front axle and radiator grille of the car. Paglia sustained laceration of the chin; and Miss Catherine Burke, E. Somerset street, Philadelphia, was treated for laceration of the nose and upper lip. Both were treated at the

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

The Price-Control Facts

Washington, July 3.

IN this feverish period, with the defense billions gushing forth in a great torrent, the business of price control is so vital to the nation as a whole that every sensible person will wish well the man whose job is to control prices—and will co-operate with him when and how he can. Not to do so is worse than shortsighted.

not calculated to inspire general confidence, now has the good will of a great many who formerly looked on him as a somewhat garrulous theorist, heavily inclined to the radical side.

THESE are still able to think of others better qualified for the job. But Mr. Henderson has the job (at $15,000 a year), and that certainly is that. The strongest supporters of Mr. Roosevelt's foreign policy are men who have opposed nearly all his domestic policies. They may prefer another leader, but he is the President and there is no way to implement the ideas which they deem vital except by supporting him. And that they are doing. In a minor way, they feel the same about Mr. Henderson.

IT is encouraging, therefore, to find the latter accepting the view that it is impossible to put an effective ceiling over prices without putting a ceiling also over wages and rents.

Bristol Experiences Its Quietest "Fourth" Holiday

Bristol experienced its quietest Fourth-of-July yesterday that is on record. The drenching downpour of rain kept a large number of people inside and the ban on the sale of fireworks kept noise from this particular source at a minimum.

There were a few cap pistols discharged by youngsters but even these were very small in number.

Picnics had to be called off, and entertainment and diversion was sought at the "movies."

One bather, Joseph Mauro, Elm street, while swimming ran a one-inch splinter in his back. John Ludwig, Pine street, fell, causing a lacerated wound of the corner of his right eye, requiring two stitches. Gloria Moffo, Pond street, who fell against a flag pole, had a laceration of the chin, in which one stitch was taken. All three were treated at Harriman Hospital.

Claims More Attention Given Cars Than Health

KELLERS CHURCH, July 5.—Addressing members of Kellers Church Grange this week, Mrs. Theodore Lewis intimated that people in many instances give more care and attention to their automobiles than to their physical bodies.

Mrs. Lewis stressed the importance of frequent physical examinations.

Owners of automobiles, she said, have their automobiles inspected every six months, but at the same time, she said, they fail to undergo physical examinations.

Featuring the meeting also was a debate, "Resolved, That every person should be compelled to have a physical examination every five years." Affirmative arguments were presented by Milton Hilmer and Stanley Baum, and the negative side was upheld by Theodore Lewis and Mrs. Milton Hilmer. The judges gave a decision in favor of the affirmative side.

During the evening the members sang some of Stephen Collins Foster's compositions.

James L. Neill Dies Here At the Age of 83 Years

An aged resident of Bristol who had made his home here for approximately 60 years died last evening, when an eight weeks' illness proved fatal to James Lytle Neill, 83, at his home, 333 Jefferson avenue.

A native of Ireland he came to this country when but a young boy. He was the son of the late David and Ellen Neill. Survivors include his wife, Annie McNulty Neill; a daughter, Mrs. William Ennis; and five sons, David, Fulton, Robert, Edward and James Neill, all of Bristol.

For the past 30 years Mr. Neill had been an employee at the Mill of the William H. Grundy Company.

He was a member of St. James Episcopal Church.

Funeral plans are in charge of Galzerano, funeral director.

Demonstration of Bible School Work Is Given

NEWPORTVILLE, July 5.—Thursday marked the final day of the Bible School of Newportville Community Church—Presbyterian, when a picnic lunch was enjoyed on the church lawn, and fees were served to the children.

On Thursday evening a demonstration of the work of the children was exhibited before the parents. David Kain, who supervised the school, was in charge of the program.

Pupils of the different departments recited Bible verses and answered questions on the catechism and Bible; and also sang hymns they had committed to memory.

Mr. Kain gave a brief illustrated talk to the assemblage, showing the power of the cross in a person's life when he accepts Christ as his Saviour. The adults were given opportunity to inspect hand-work and reports of the children, which were displayed.

TO SURVEY COUNTY FOR FACILITIES OF REFUGEE HOUSING

Local Defense Council Will Be
Aided by Bucks County
Boy Scouts

NO EMERGENCY NOW

Questionnaires Being Distributed to Ascertain the Accommodations

There will be undertaken shortly in Bucks County a survey of the refugee housing facilities.

The Local Defense Council of Bucks County stated that the survey will be made by the Boy Scouts, who will co-operate with the council.

While obviously there is no immediate refugee emergency in this county, Bucks County is so located that in case of any serious catastrophe occurring in the nearby industrial areas, a mass evacuation into this and adjacent counties might well happen.

It is in order to determine the number of refugees that could be cared for in this county, either as transients or more permanently, that the full survey has been thought necessary. When the facilities of the county have been ascertained, it will be possible for the Defense Council to take precautionary steps in co-operation with Federal and State Authorities, so that, in case of emergency, efforts can be made to limit the refugees to the available accommodations.

Questionnaires will be distributed to each home in the county by the Boy Scouts. The co-operation of all residents of the county in filling out these forms completely is urgently requested by the Defense Council.

Youth Hurt In Peculiar Accident; 2 Others Injured

A young man who states he was injured when a car in which he was given a hitch-hike, was involved in an accident, was treated at Harriman Hospital, last evening; while two men said to have aided the youth are in a Trenton hospital, it is claimed.

Details of the case are lacking, but Anthony DeGatis, New Brunswick, N. J., told Harriman Hospital officials that he was given a ride by two colored men, enroute from Langhorne to Bristol. He was not certain what happened, but believes that in a crash he was tossed out of the car. Later he was picked up by an Edgely resident and taken to the hospital.

Highway patrolmen report that two colored men, apparently involved in the same accident, are being treated in a Trenton hospital.

Details were treated for contusions of the back, and two hours later left the hospital.

"Thank You America" Is Independence Day Theme

EDDINGTON, July 5.—"Thank You America" was the theme of the Independence Day service held yesterday morning in Eddington Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Arthur D. Sargis, pastor of the church, read as the Scripture lesson the Ten Commandments, which are recognized as the fundamental law of this land as well as of the ancient Jewish state. The congregation joined in the singing of the national anthem, and "America." H. W. Moore, Esq., read the Declaration of Independence.

A series of short talks were given on the general theme of "Thank You America." Isaac S. H. Jones, Esq., from the point of view of the churchman, called attention to the right of freedom of worship as guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States, in contrast with conditions as they exist in many parts of the world today and urged his hearers to jealously preserve that right. Raymond Dewees, speaking as a father, based his talk on the commandment, "Love thy neighbor as thyself." Arthur G. Wilkinson, Sunday School superintendent, also spoke as a father, and expressed his thanks for the opportunity of bringing up children to be citizens of a free and independent land. C. Burnley White spoke as a Christian business man, and gave thanks to America because, as in no other land, men of all nationalities, colors and creeds can work together in a Christ-like manner.

Miss Merian S. Peters spoke on the theme of "What America Means to Children," drawing upon her experiences as a teacher of children of foreign birth in this country and her extensive travels in other lands. She called attention to the fact that even in a country such as France many children who desire a high school education are unable to obtain it because of lack of facilities, and because so many of the homes are unheated the children from such homes must spend ten hours a day at school. From such conditions the children in America are wondrously free.

Following the brief talks the congregation saluted the American flag. A "Thank-you-America" offering was received for the United Service Organizations.

Mrs. Gertrude P. Kirk closed the patriotic service with the singing of "Thank You America."

GAINING AIR SUPREMACY

Regardless of the arithmetical precision of British claims that the RAF has been inflicting casualties on the Nazis at a ratio of 5 to 1 in Britain's favor, there is no doubt about this salient and encouraging fact: For the first time since the war began, Britain has taken the initiative away from Germany in the air. It is the Royal Air Force which now is on the offensive, the Luftwaffe which is on the defensive.

For three weeks the British flyers have been blasting away relentlessly at German positions along the Channel and in Northern France, at the German industrial stronghold of the Ruhr and at Kiel, Hamburg, and other German naval bases. For much longer than this period, German air operations over Britain have been light and unimportant.

Until Hitler attacked Russia there was much speculation about the slackening of German aerial warfare against Britain. Many observers believed it to be the lull before the storm of an all-out blitzkrieg exceeding in power and fury that which the Nazis launched on Britain late last summer and early last fall. Need for German aircraft on the Russian front now makes it certain that there will be no Nazi aerial blitzkrieg of Britain until the business in the East has been settled—and conceivably not then. German preparations for the war on Russia may explain the lack of Nazi air attacks on Britain in recent weeks—but they do not explain the tremendously increased striking power of the RAF, as demonstrated in a sustained air offensive which began well in advance of the Russo-German break.

If Germany should win a quick victory over Russia, the Nazis might be able to reverse the preponderance of air power in the West. But for the time being the British have achieved what they have been desperately—but almost hopelessly—seeking for many months: a position of relative strength, permitting them to shift the main theater of aerial combat from the British Isles to the Continent.

If they can continue to carry the battle to the Continent, prospects of eventual British victory will be enormously improved. American-made planes have had a large part in bringing about this shift in the balance of aerial power. In fact, without American planes Britain would not have been able to achieve it.

DOMESTIC SITDOWN

In Fort Wayne, Indiana, a harassed husband staged a successful sitdown strike against seven of his in-law relatives who had overstayed their welcome at his home. His strike made real news at the moment, too, because it (1) was not imperiling the national defense program, (2) was not communist-inspired, (3) did not defy the National Defense Mediation Board and (4) did not violate any previous agreement between labor and management.

hay harvest with the use of the pick-up balers. As soon as the hay was dry it was taken in the fields with this machine and then taken to the barns. Ordinarily the farmers first cut the grass, left in the fields to cure and then hauled it to the barn mow. This required a large amount of work. Farmers who do not feel they can afford to buy the combines to be used in the harvesting of grain may rent them.

Orchardists also have been affected by the shortage of help. In some orchards in the county, where ordinarily two and three sprayers are at work at one time, only one was in use because the owners were unable to get men to operate them. The harvest of the peach crop later in the Summer and the apple crop early in the Fall will also present a rather puzzling problem because of the scarcity of help.

In spite of the labor shortage, according to Mr. Greenawalt, farmers in the county are not behind schedule with their work. This was delayed only by about one week because of the rain, which was badly needed.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

Instead of the usual more or less elaborate menu for Sunday dinner why not turn the main meal this week into a picnic affair and serve it in the yard under the trees or even pack it into a hamper and find a spot in the woods or by the seashore?

After regulation menus for so many months, the family undoubtedly will enjoy a picnic style Sunday dinner for a change and a wide selection of budget priced fruits and vegetables at the largest of the chain stores over the week-end will simplify planning. Among the most attractively priced items in fresh fruits and vegetables are bananas, cherries, cantaloupes, lemons, watermelons, plums, beets, carrots, cucumbers, radishes, scalloons, iceberg lettuce, romaine, escarole, potatoes, rhubarb, spinach and tomatoes.

Among meats frankfurters, ham butts and cold cuts will all be budget priced items this week and all lend themselves admirably to a picnic menu. Other good meat buys are ribs of beef, porterhouse, sirloin and chuck steaks, chuck pot roasts, plate and naval beef, boneless briskets and legs of lambs. Fryers and broilers and small turkeys are low priced among poultry.

Prepared by Marion Rouse Budd, director of the A & P kitchens, the following menus are suggested for "handy" dinner:

- Low Cost Dinner—Picnic Style
Cold Meat Sandwiches
Stuffed Eggs
Whole Tomatoes
Milk and Cup Cakes
- Moderate Cost Dinner
Braised Boneless Chuck Roast
Steamed Rice
Green Beans
Cornbread
Cucumber and Tomato Salad
Iced Watermelon
Iced Tea
- Very Special Dinner
Stuffed Celery
Leg of Lamb with Mint Sauce
New Potatoes
Summer Squash
Mixed Green Salad
Hot Biscuits
Cantaloupes Filled with Ice Cream
Iced Coffee

which are the chief factors in prices. One does not have to be an economist to grasp this fact. It is clearly basic. No one even argues against it. In addition to flexible ceilings over prices, wages and rents, there also must be a tax program that will reach the great consuming masses in a way to restrict their purchasing power. It is axiomatic that real price control requires every one of these things. In this matter, it is all or none.

IT can be accepted that Mr. Henderson is sincerely anxious to avert inflation; that the situation is growing dangerous; that he has no power to cope with it; that what he is doing, without power, is, through no fault of his own, haphazard, hit or miss, ineffectual. Of course, he should have been given legal authority many weeks ago, when he was first appointed, and not permitted to flounder helplessly about while the spiral began to get under way. But it is not too late if the President promptly will present his legislation to Congress and if the public will register strongly against those members of Congress who, refusing to consider the general good in a national crisis, oppose any sort of price control because of the protests from special groups among their constituents—notably, labor and agriculture. Apparently there are men who, to appease the lobbyists of these groups, are willing to expose the whole nation to disaster.

HOWEVER, they are in a small minority, and there would be no difficulty in overcoming them if the President would put himself forcefully behind a bill to give his price controller the instruments without which he cannot function and, at the same time, recognize that a policy of simultaneously putting stills under food prices and permitting wages steadily to rise completely nullifies the whole price-control effort—renders it, in fact, a joke. The trouble is to get the President to act in this way. Just as well as Mr. Henderson—and every other man capable of thought on the subject—he knows that if prices are held rigid, while continuous wage increases are taken out of profits, ultimately there will be no tax revenue for the Government, no business, no jobs.

YET the clearly indicated action is not easy for him. From the beginning, in this Administration, the two favored groups have been those of organized labor and agriculture.

For eight years it has derived its chief political support from them. For eight years it has devoted itself to giving them everything for which they asked—and some things of which they only dreamed. Now that an unlimited emergency exists, now when co-operation and sacrifice are asked by the President of every citizen, and when there is no excuse for public men to think in terms of classes and groups, we find these groups demanding greater concessions and more consideration than before—and getting it.

AND the Administration, so long accustomed to lean upon these groups, has not—so far—had the heart or courage, or desire, or whatever you choose to call it, to curtail their appetite or restrain their greed. Yet, if it does not soon act to do so, it clearly frustrates its purposes, makes its own policies look foolish and invites inflation. It would be an inspiring thing to see the President fully measure up to this situation. As the most generous friend of the unions and the farmers who ever sat in the White House, he is in a better position than anyone ever was to ask them to accept his judgment and give him support for a step in the national interests. Moreover, with that kind of appeal, there is little question that he could get it. Mr. Henderson, who, despite his volubility, is an able man, cannot make a fight of this sort by himself. He has to speak softly on the sensitive subjects of labor and agriculture. The initiative must come from the President. They both know the facts, but only the President can present them effectively.

Marriage of Dorothy Bair and E. M. Keating, Jr., Solemnized

The marriage of Miss Dorothy C. Bair, 241 Harrison street, and Mr. Edward M. Keating, Jr., 918 Radcliffe street, which was a Thursday evening event in St. Mark's R. C. rectory, was followed by an informal reception on the lawn of the home of the groom's parents, with dinner served to 42 guests at a tea room in Scudders Falls, N. J., later in the evening.

The bride, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bair, was attended by Mrs. Douglas Chilton, Glenside, as matron of honor; while Mr. Keating, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Keating, had as his groomsmen, Mr. Edward McBride, Jr., Germantown.

Turquoise blue chiffon fashioned the floor-length gown worn by the bride, features being a low neck line and long, full sleeves. With this was worn a white picture hat of straw, trimmed in turquoise blue; white accessories, and a corsage of gardenias.

The gown selected by Mrs. Chilton was of cream toned organdie, floor-length, it having long sleeves. Her slippers were cream colored, and she wore a leghorn hat; and corsage of yellow roses.

The reception-dinner was attended by members of the bridal party, and of the immediate families of the contracting parties. The newly-weds have gone to the Pocono Mountains for the week-end. After September 1st they will be at home at their residence, now being erected at Landreth Manor.

FOOD MARKET

Advice-

BEEF still holds the spotlight for good buys among meat this week, with lamb prices continuing to fluctuate but remaining rather high. With the weather established at summer temperatures, however, the cold cuts, smoked ham butts and frankfurters all are good suggestions for the main course and are temptingly priced over the week-end.

Beef cuts being featured over the week-end are ribs, porterhouse, sirloin and chuck steaks, chuck pot roasts, briskets and plate and naval cuts. Now that the system of mass merchandising and distribution has developed by the chain stores has made fresh seafoods available at such distances from the seacoast, fish is an excellent choice for a summer main dish. In the west carp, mackerel, perch and halibut are plentiful and good buys. In the east, porgies, butterfish and sea bass are among the lower priced fish.

Boston reports a heavier production on groundfish with low prices prevailing on haddock, scrod, market cod and steak cods. Fresh Western halibut is also being shipped in good supply. New York fishermen are bringing in large catches of butterfish, sea bass and whiting and flounders and yellowtails are getting more plentiful. Bluefish, fresh lobster meat and fresh crabmeat are all becoming scarce.

Fresh Fruits Increasing

California seedless grapes are beginning to arrive in market, cherries, cantaloupes and watermelons are getting more plentiful and, therefore, low priced and there is a wide variety of green vegetables to brighten summer menus. Among the lower priced vegetables over the week-end will be beets, green beans, carrots, cucumbers, radishes, scallions, iceberg lettuce, romaine, oscarole, potatoes, spinach and tomatoes. Virginia growers are shipping a new crop of rutabagas and corn is arriving from the Southern states.

Made up of items which will be low priced over the weekend, the following menu is suggested for Sunday dinner:

Broiled Chicken
Scalloped Potatoes
Buttered Peas
Beet and Scallion Salad
Bread and Butter
Plum Tarts
Iced Coffee

Legion Past Commander Speaks To Rotarians

tary Club, told the group that "all citizens and organizations must combine to work for the best interests of the community and the Nation to solve the problems confronting us today.

"We must give the best that we have, regardless of what it may be, when our Country needs us."

Several guests and visiting Rotarians were present at the meeting at which president Hargrave presided. Among the guests were the officers of the local American Legion Post. Singing of new and old patriotic songs was led by Ernest Gamble.

The speaker told the group that the public is today more receptive to the thoughts of National Defense. "And we can rejoice in our program for a two-ocean navy and an air force superior to any other country in the world."

"And we can rejoice that our youth are responding so splendidly to the one year service period in the armed forces of our Country. Our citizens have taken it as a matter of course when the boys have left for camps. We must remember, however, that all citizens are drafted for service. It is up to us all to be Minute Men, so that we may enjoy the fruits of our forefathers. The spirit of sacrifice must be in the heart of every citizen."

Gwynn pointed out that modern equipment alone is not enough and illustrated his point by saying that France had the best equipped and best trained army in the world, but because there was something lacking she was defeated. "There was something lacking in the hearts of the citizens of France," he declared.

The speaker also warned against the subversive activities practiced in this country today against our Government and our citizens. Pamphlets have been distributed by the hundreds of thousands to small children by the agents of foreign governments working in the United States. "And I have seen organized groups marching in a neighboring State and saluting the swastika as they marched by. We must guard against this activity," was the challenge issued by Gwynn.

Employe of German Consulate Found Dead

Mt. Vernon, N. Y., July 5—Julius L. Otto, an employe of the German consulate in New York which now is closed, was found dead in the bathroom of his home here today, a noose around his neck. Otto, who was 54, had hanged himself to the shower rack which had broken under the weight of his body.

Germany's Forces Face Russia's Defenses

Berlin, July 5—Germany's advancing legions have reached the Dnieper River and are facing Russia's main defenses, the "Stalin Line," it was announced in Berlin today.

As Chancellor Hitler's blitzkrieg swept forward on the middle sector of the front, new successes were reported both from the north and south.

"Despite difficult terrain and stiff resistance, German and Finnish units advancing from Finland are pursuing the beaten foe," the High Command said.

This advance was said to threaten the vital Russian Arctic port of Murmansk, one of the few places where the Soviets could receive lease-lend aid from the U. S.

Several thousand Red prisoners were taken by Hungarian troops advancing in the South, it was claimed, and the towns of Kolomea and Stanislav captured. A number of enemy units were "destroyed" in the South Pripet marshes.

The Stalin Line, Russia's main defense barrier, is said to be 1,100 miles in length, running from the Gulf of Finland to the Black Sea. It is said by some to be thoroughly modern, while others declare it to be merely a series of unrelated and unconnected forts, with wide gaps between.

Twenty-One Lost Lives In Penna. Traffic Accidents

Twenty-one persons lost their lives over the Fourth of July holiday weekend in traffic accidents on Pennsylvania highways, a survey disclosed today.

Ten were killed in Western Pennsylvania, five in the central part of the State, and six in the eastern counties. Scores more were injured. The Pennsylvania Turnpike did an unusually heavy business, but despite this reported no fatalities. There were four accidents.

Fireman Dies; 29 Were Injured

New York, July 5—One fireman died and 29 were injured today in a three-hour fire in lower Broadway which destroyed a six story building and damaged five floors of an adjoining 12 story structure.

A backdraft which blew a column of flame more than 100 feet from the building and a second backdraft which followed hurtled firemen into the air and across the street and accounted for the death and injuries. The body of Fireman Carl Bischoff was found in the gutted ruins of the buildings after the four-alarm fire had finally been extinguished.

No Possibility of a Negotiated Peace

Leeds, July 5—Foreign Minister Anthony Eden today reiterated Britain's determination to fight on until victory is won and declared there is no possibility of a negotiated peace with Germany.

"We are not in any circumstances prepared to negotiate with Hitler at any time on any subject," he said.

providing instruction in operation of power sewing machines, all those taking the course being assured of placement in industry, so great is the demand for workers.

The space and equipment is being provided by Sol Friedman at his plant here, with the national defense project, Program 5, paying for power, maintenance and instruction.

The instructress is Miss Adele White, New York City, who is training young women, 15 to 25 years of age, eight hours daily. The class which opened on Wednesday, includes six students, with accommodations being afforded for six more.

The students are not paid for their work while learning, but have been given good assurance that industry can absorb experienced sewers.

The six to eight weeks' course is approved by the Garment Workers' Union.

The young women registered through the National Youth Administration, the local office of which is located in the Bristol post office building. Ralph A. DeDonado is director of the Bristol office of Vocational Education for National Defense, which is directing the project.
